Her very full skirt was fashioned with alternating tiers of peau de soie and scalloped lace. A wateau chapel train was edged with matching lace.

The former Miss Chinchock wore a tiara headpiece to secure her elbow length veil of bridal illusion and she held a nosegay of red roses and white daisies.

Maid of honor Miss Deborah

Lynn Chinchock, a sister of the bride, wore a formal length dress in royal blue velvet. Embroidered flowers in various colors were applied on the elbow length sleeves and around the hemline.

Miss Lydia Ramirez, bridesmaid, chose a red velvet gown made in halter style and complemented with a matching cape. Both attendants carried bouquets of white roses and white daisies festooned with long white satin streamers.

Leah Ann Chinchock, another sister of the bride, served as flower girl. She was dressed in a long blue and white eyelet frock.

Comeback by 42-year-old captures feature car race

Forty-two-year-old Lou Thierrey of Bunker Hill, drove his late model stock car to the winner's circle for the first time in 10 years Friday night at Tri-City Speedway after warding off the challenges of Lou Janssen and Bel Myers to capture the 25-lap feature event of the season's first racing program.

Thierrey, who raced here part-time last year after a nine-year retirement from the sport, jumped into the lead from the pole position at the drop of the green flag.

He was never headed all the way to the checkered flag but said, "I could see first Janssen and then Myers filling my rear-view mirror all the way." He is a heavy equipment operator at Janssen of Bethalto, and Ponton Beach's Vic Spalding were all bunched to the victor's rear bumper for 19 laps before Myers of Rosewood Heights took over second place on the 20th lap with a slingshot maneuver coming out of the second corner of the half-mile oval.

Myers, the evening's fastest qualifier with a time of 26.68 seconds, finished second and Janssen and Spalding were third and fourth. Rounding out the top qualifying positions in time trials were: Len Gittermier 26.73, Tom Frasher 26.91, Spalding 27.04, Russ Wallace 27.13, Paul McGinn 27.37 and Thierrey 27.39.

Thierrey earlier had finished third behind Butch Henderson of Columbia, Mo., and Janssen, the winner, in the first heat race, and then drove to second place behind Gittermier in the handicap event.

Other late model event winners were: Ken Schrader, second heat; Gittermier, third heat; and Tom Corbin, semi-feature.

In the sportsman division, heat winners were Dean Aerne and Mike Henze. Granite City's Gary Barker captured the 20-lap feature race, with John Wolfmeier finishing second, Jack Yates third and Rob Bailey of Granite City fourth.

Thierrey now holds a 45-point (180) lead over former track champion Myers in point standings at the local track and Janssen and Spalding are tied for third place with 120 points each.

Congress sets day of prayer

Pamphlets calling attention to a U. S. Congressional resolution proclaiming April 30 as a "National Day of Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer," are being circulated in the area by churches urging participation in the national Day of Prayer.

The Campus Crusade for Christ International, in bulletins received here by church and lay leaders, is urging special prayer services in the churches and special prayer day observances by community groups and in the homes.

The resolution adopted in the U. S. House and Senate proclaims that April 30 "be a National Day of Humiliation, Fasting and Prayer, and calls upon the people of our nation to humble ourselves as we see fit before our Creator to acknowledge our final dependence upon Him and to repent of our national sins."

Lamb-Flach nuptials at St. John United Church

Miss Judith Flach, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Flach, 2651 E. 23rd St., and Richard Lamb, son of Mrs. Helen Lamb, 2349 Grand Ave., exchanged wedding vows in an early evening ceremony Friday at St. John United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road.

The Rev. Carl Eschenbrenner, associate pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony at 6:30. Bouquets of white spring flowers adorned the altar and white satin bows decorated the pews.

Roger Junk of Belleville, a cousin of the bride, sang several nuptial selections, accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Irene Barriack.

For her wedding, the bride wore a white organza gown fashioned with a high rise waistline and a long full skirt. The bodice was made of Venice lace which extended over the very full sheer sleeves in a cap effect and also formed the stand up collar.

A detachable cathedral length train was secured at the back of her gown with a self fabric bow.

She wore a headpiece of lace petals to hold in place a triple tier veil, shoulder length, and she carried a cascade of white carnations.

Miss Donna Flach, a sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Misses Linda Ringling, Jeanette Moore and Marie Flach, another sister of the bride.

They were gowned alike in dresses of white organza accented with purple flocked flowers and made in an Empire style. A small ruffle edged the necklines and a wide gathered flounce encircled the hems.

Each attendant wore a white picture hat enhanced with purple ribbon streamers and carried a bouquet of purple tinted carnations.

Nicole Rush, the groom's niece, was the flower girl. She wore a long white frock trimmed in purple.

Joe Tutka, a nephew of the bride, was the ringbearer.

The groom chose his brother, Mark Lamb, as best man. Randy Isaac, Bob Reed, Eddie Peck, a cousin of the bride, and Benny Lofink completed the corps of groomsmen and ushers.

A reception for guests was held at Creston Hall, Madison, immediately following the service.

Both mothers chose blue ensembles, complemented with white accessories. Each wore a corsage of blue carnations.

The newly married couple will reside in Key West, Fla., where the groom is stationed with the U.S. Army.

Both graduated from Granite City High School. The bride has been employed at the Bank of St. Louis.

Library Week cites impact on education

This week, April 21-27, has been set aside by special proclamation of Illinois Gov. Daniel Walker, as National Library Week in this state, and all public libraries are participating.

The staffs of local libraries, which are among the 27 members in the Lewis and Clark Library System, are joining with libraries throughout the nation in observing the week, stressing that the public library is one of the basic organizations in the educational process.

"The Lewis and Clark Library System libraries better serve the people of each of their communities because they are able to draw upon the facilities of other member libraries and of the system headquarters located at Edwardsville," Cheryl A. Gruneich of the Lewis and Clark staff comments.

"A telephone call by the librarian can bring answers to reference questions; order materials on inter-library loan; place requests for framed art prints, 16mm films or phonograph recordings; bring talking books and large-print titles for the use of visually and physically handicapped; and obtain a wide variety of other services."

"Posters, bookmarks, displays and consultants are available from the system headquarters to members. Weekly courier service brings books, films and other materials to all the member libraries and reading centers."

"Communities supporting Lewis and Clark member libraries receive more for their dollar investment, more books, more educational materials and more efficient service," it was noted.

THE SCHERMER BULLETIN

We have some real "old fashioned" items for sale this week. How does Ham Hocks for 39¢ a lb. sound? We thought it sounded great so we "bought in". Cabbage is reasonable, so try Smoked Ham Hocks with cabbage. Feed your family for a small amount.

Also picked up a great breakfast combo. Sliced Bacon for 69¢ a lb. and Grade A Eggs only 49¢ a dozen. Who said prices wouldn't come down? All of our people are watching the markets like hawks, and as soon as something breaks, we put it on sale.

We had a great Rotary Meeting at the Madison Rotary Club last Wednesday. St. Louis County Supervisor Lawrence G. Roos was the speaker. We thought he had a message; but evidently the Editor of the Press-Record (who was present) thought differently. You may find some account of it in today's Press. We hope so.

State switching to smaller cars

Can you buy and maintain a car now for no more money than it cost you before the oil shortage? Not if you replace your big V8 with a new one of the same size and horsepower.

But Illinois Department of General Services officials say they hope to offset climbing automotive costs by using smaller cars.

They don't expect to operate smaller cars for fewer dollars than it cost previously to run larger ones—and they don't know, either, how much gasoline and tires will cost next year—but they hope to break even.

Director Roland Burris said one-third of the 1,700-car fleet operated by agencies in the state government's executive branch, excluding police cars, will be replaced by smaller-sized cars during the current fiscal year and another one-third during the 1975 fiscal year (July 1, 1974-June 30, 1975).

The state probably buys its cars and all the things they consume for someone less than the average citizen. But the standard, intermediate, compact and subcompact cost ratios may be about the same.

If you're looking at the luxury models you probably aren't concerned about saving a few bucks, Jim Murphy, General Service's superintendent of vehicles, says.

He thinks another major saving will result from a new purchasing policy—annual contracts. Under this 1974 innovation, contracts are negotiated for the model year for all cars purchased for agencies under the government's "intermediate, compact, subcompact."

Until this fiscal year, the state traded in its old cars for new ones. Now the old cars are sold at auction. Last February, 180 autos were auctioned for $95,000. Most cars are more than two years old and have been run about 75,000 miles when they are sold. Police cars are replaced at 50,000 miles when they also are about two years old.

In addition to a guaranteed price for each category for the entire year, Murphy said, the annual contracts eliminate 80 per cent of the paper work in the department's Procurement Division.

He said the department expects to save $180,000 by purchasing 600 small cars this year—most of them compact and subcompact and a few intermediates—instead of standard sized cars. The average cost of each in the three small-car categories is about $3,100 as compared with $3,400 for a standard, he said. And, he added, the smaller cars will use an estimated 25 per cent fewer gallons of gasoline and will cost less to maintain.

The Division of Vehicles, which has motor pools in Springfield, Chicago, Peoria, Champaign and Marion, operates 23 garages and 45 service stations throughout the state. It provides gasoline, oil, parts and maintenance for 25 to 30 per cent less than the charges would be at private facilities, Murphy said. Last year the division's garages processed 93,000 jobs with 130 mechanics. The service stations provide seven million gallons of gasoline annually.

During the recent truckers' strike, the division's stations remained open 24 hours a day and at no time were they unable to provide service for State Police and National Guard vehicles, Murphy said.

In addition to approving the purchase and sale of all vehicles consumed by agencies under the governor, the division processes applications for their titles and licenses.

Gov. Dan Walker's emphasis on energy conservation during the past year resulted in 12 per cent decrease in fuel consumption by state vehicles during the second half of 1973 as compared with the last six months of 1972.

From July through December of 1973, the 8,800 vehicles used in the executive branch of state government—including police cars, trucks, vans, snowplows, etc.—consumed 7,078,851 gallons of gasoline.

During the final six months of the previous administration, 7,964,349 gallons were used. That's a decrease of 885,498 gallons. The savings would have been more than a million gallons if Illinois had not been hit by two snow storms during December, Murphy said.

In many state agencies, executive travel and the number of vehicles have been reduced, travel has been consolidated and the use of public transportation has increased, he said.

State mechanics deserve much of the credit for the motor pools' good safety record, Murphy said. Under the division's training program, some employees have received advanced training and taken the knowledge back to their fellow mechanics.

He also pointed to a new money-saving program conducted in cooperation with the state Department of Corrections in which prison inmates do their "pruning" on cars to be auctioned. The work includes body cleanup and the removal of the state seal and dents. Money also is saved by a warranty program, Murphy explained. The major auto manufacturers have agreed that any parts found defective by state mechanics may be tagged for later price adjustments. A defective warping, for example, may cause additional problems.

Under the negotiated agreement, the state may be reimbursed by the auto makers for defective parts and the labor they caused just as their franchised dealers are. The program is extremely effective, Murphy said, when the same problem turns up in several cars of the same make.

State agencies rent cars from the division at cost—about 35 per cent less than could be obtained from private rental firms, he said. Motor pool rates are a dollar an hour, with a maximum of $12 a day, plus five cents a mile, gasoline and oil provided.

The Motor Pool car pool is another new economy measure and fuel saver. The five motor pools rent cars to 250 state employees daily. Reservations 24 hours in advance are requested, Murphy said, and motor pool officials then try to match up travelers who could use one car instead of two, or three, or four. It's not easy.

County approves 11 zoning changes

The Madison County Board has given its approval to zoning changes in 11 Quad-City cases, including two changes for installation of air monitoring equipment in this area, one for a trucking firm, one for a sign and seven for special use permits for mobile homes.

The two local air monitoring station locations were among four which the board approved. The first was in an agricultural district of Chouteau Township and the second was in an M-2 general manufacturing district of Nameoki Township.

Rockwell International Corp. is installing the units for the Environmental Protection Agency. Land in the first case is owned by Clyde L. Hartung and the Nameoki Township site is owned by Arthur and Katherine Roman.

The other two are to be erected in an agricultural district of Collinsville Township and one on the dividing line of agricultural districts in St. Jacob and Jarvis townships.

Also granted was a petition by Robert W. Bell and Leona Wilkinson for a special use permit to operate a trucking and excavating business in an R-3 single family residential district of Nameoki Township at 4161 Division St. A special use permit also was granted for an advertising sign to identify the business.

A request by Louis and Vita Clonko, owners, and National Advertising Co. was granted for a variance to erect a sign in excess of allowable area requirements and height in an agricultural district of Chouteau Township at the entrance to the Mal Landfill.

GRANITE CITY PRESS-RECORD

Special use permits were granted to: L. E. Lindsay of Lindsay Construction Co. owner, and W. Kenneth Howell of the same firm, occupant of a mobile home, for a mobile home in a B-4 wholesale business district of Nameoki Township along Route 162 by the Nickel Plate Railroad tracks.

To Floyd Levert, owner and occupant, for a mobile home in an R-4 single family residential district of Nameoki Township at 2024 Harris St.

To Kenneth and Mary Ann Hodge, owners and occupants, for a mobile home in an R-3 single family residential district of Nameoki Township at 4208 Division St.

To George S. Hadley, owner and occupant, for a double-wide mobile home in an M-2 general manufacturing district of Chouteau Township on Chouteau Island.

To Laverne Prill, owner, and Robert A. Prill, occupant, for a mobile home in an R-2 single family residential district in Nameoki Township at Routes 111 and 162.

To Vernie C. Taylor, owner and occupant, for a mobile home in an R-4 single family residential district of Nameoki Township at 3117 Harvard Place.

To Louis Spohr, owner, and Edward Van Scoyk, occupant, for a mobile home in an R-3 single family residential district of Nameoki Township on Breckenridge Lane, three blocks north of Garden Lane. A request by Luther Mathenia and Vendle Mathenia, owners, and Joyce Mathenia, occupant, for a mobile home in an R-4 single family residential district of Nameoki Township in McNairs Addition on Third Street was denied. It was held in abeyance at last month's Zoning Board of Appeals Board meeting after a Feb. 26 hearing. Granted this month after being discussed and denied at the March County Board meeting was a request by Dewey Garner, owner, to operate an automobile repair shop at his home at 4514 Nameoki Road, an R-4 single family residential district of Nameoki Township. He agreed to a list of 10 stipulations concerning operation of the shop. Requests were granted for Mathew Kozyak, owner, for a special use permit to divide a lot into two sub-standard sized lots of 9,750 square feet each, a variance to waive the set-back requirements and another variance to create a smaller than standard rear yard in an R-3 single family residential district of Nameoki Township at Warnock Avenue and Morrison Road. The board stipulated that the property is not to be filled beyond the level of surrounding lots and that any homes constructed on the lots are not to have basements.

Comment and analysis

April 22, 1974

Hard to sympathize with behind-the-scenes college play because it could be destructive to local kindergarten-to-high school instruction program

A special election perhaps cannot be avoided on the question of whether the Granite City-Stallings-Pontoon Beach-Mitchell area should be served by Belleville Area College beginning July 1.

It seems unfortunate, because there will be considerable cost to taxpayers in conducting the special vote.

Those who oppose annexation to BAC certainly had many opportunities to speak out earlier, and were generally silent on the issue.

The election would result from new petitions much like those that led to the scheduling of a state hearing for May 9 at Granite City High School South.

To avoid an election, citizens would need to avoid signing. But, as has been demonstrated so often, almost any petition can be successfully circulated as long as the number of required signatures is small.

A committee studying the topic believes that the developments this spring are intended to ultimately aid Lewis and Clark Community College, which would avoid Madison-Venice students but make use of Granite City's taxable wealth. The assessed valuation would help bail out Lewis and Clark in its understandable desire to construct new, fire-resistant buildings at its old Godfrey campus.

All of which may be self-defeating, because the only beneficiary, Lewis and Clark, or its "friends," are not acting in a manner to win the votes that would be needed at election time.

If it is seen as a sly, behind-the-scenes saboteur of sound, already-conducted local community college planning, Lewis and Clark will hardly qualify as a desirable alternative.

And the mischief involves far more than the cost of a potential special election.

School District Nine for an indefinite period would have to shoulder substantial college tuition costs even though the power to levy for such an obligation expires throughout the state June 30. This would force a meat-axe approach to the pairing of existing kindergarten-through-12th grade school services.

Bakalis might gain state appointment but may not be the best candidate

Anything can happen in politics, so it is possible that Dr. Michael Bakalis will succeed himself as state school superintendent when the elective office becomes appointive at the end of this year. Many Quad-Cityans are hopeful, however, that someone else will be named.

It seemed improbable at one time that Supt. Bakalis would be a strong contender, since he and Gov. Daniel Walker did not get along.

The governor named a screening committee to propose 50 potential State Education Board members, and he has just chosen 17 from that list to serve on the new board and to choose a superintendent.

Official relations between the two have warmed considerably and Dr. Bakalis this spring supported the governor's budget proposal—a controversial budget which appears certain to assure severe financial hardship for local school systems.

State school funding for the current fiscal year will be less than 100 per cent of what was enacted, and for 1974-75 the shortfall may be of gigantic proportions.

Expansion of Nameoki Town Hall offers multiple benefits to residents

As Nameoki Supervisor Louis Whittless notes, it would be appropriate for a tangible project like a Town Hall expansion to be carried out with some of the considerable supply of federal revenue sharing funds made available to the township.

Added space would enable the township to provide a helpful meeting place, courtroom and private public aid offices.

All town offices could be centralized at one location, saving rent, equipment and utility costs. And the project could be broadened to include needed roof, insulation, air conditioning, door and wiring improvements.

The proposal appears to deserve consideration and action by the Town Board in the near future.

Meanwhile, serious concern continues over the impasse that has delayed long-overdue maintenance work on Nameoki Township roads damaged by weather conditions during the winter.

How best to invest state funds?

SPRINGFIELD — The 1974 primary election is over. The ballots have been counted.

And "hustling" Harry Page of Springfield has emerged the victor as the Republican nominee for state treasurer over the soft-spoken Jeanette Mullen of Barrington. Victory apparently came as no surprise to Page who rode to success on a wave of Downstate support.

"I felt all along we'd get at least 40 per cent of the vote in Chicago. In fact I would have been surprised if we didn't get those votes. We had an awful lot of commitments which we felt were firm," he said recently.

Next November, Page will learn just how solid those commitments are. That's when he will face the final test of his grueling and expensive campaign. That's when he will square off against incumbent Alan Dixon, a popular Democrat from Belleville.

Currently, says Page, there is only one issue and it may be all encompassing. It centers on the investment practices of Dixon.

For several years state treasurers have been investing state money in banks throughout the state on the basis of regional bidding for the highest investment rates.

Dixon has carried out that policy with particular gusto to the fact that he's earned some $350 million since taking office through accumulated interest — almost 82 per cent more than his predecessor.

But he's also instituted a policy of favoring banks that adopt programs of benefit to the elderly and students such as free checking accounts and low interest loans.

"I'm extremely proud of my record in office," declared Dixon recently. "Our investment programs are good and sound."

However, Page says it is not the treasurer's job to adopt "welfare programs."

"The treasurer has no business telling banks what kind of programs they should draw money and that's not his job. Such bickering so early in a campaign is somewhat unusual. It could be an indication that the treasurer's race will turn out to be one of the more nasty campaigns in a year of contests that generally promise to be free of controversy and traditional excitement.

Dixon, a 20-year veteran of public service in both the State Senate and House of Representatives, says he won't actually begin full-fledged campaigning until June.

He said he wants to take his time and develop "clean, sharp" campaign material. The treasurer said he will probably spend $250,000 next November — about $50,000 more than he spent years ago when he defeated Republican Ed Kucharski 964,271 to 815,150.

HARRY PAGE

ALAN DIXON

The 46-year-old Belleville Democrat, who is noted for his fiery speeches, ran unopposed for his party's nomination in the primary.

If successful in his bid for re-election, he will become the first state treasurer to succeed himself since Erastus Bates in 1870.

Dixon got an early start in politics. At the age of 21 he was elected police magistrate in his hometown and two years later was elected to the House of Representatives. He was re-elected to the house five times before serving eight years in the state Senate.

Vowing to fight back if unfairly criticized, Dixon said he would like to dwell on national issues during his campaign to fill the void when Democratic U.S. Sen. Adlai Stevenson is out of state in Washington.

On June 1, the treasurer plans to open four campaign offices around the state. Though this is his first bid for statewide office, Page is no newcomer to the political game. He was quite active in the campaigns of his brother Ray and served as assistant state school superintendent during his brother's administration.

Page, 43, has been a school administrator for 13 years. He has taken a leave of absence as vice principal of Springfield Southeast High School in order to devote all of his time to the campaign.

Page declined to predict how much he will spend during his campaign. He said his campaign also will begin officially on June 1.

"If there's one thing that I've learned from the primary it's that campaigning around the general public not only works — but it's fun," the candidate declared.

Fears costly permit will be adopted

To the Editor: Residents of Granite City, hear this.

One fine morning we are all going to wake up and find the "costly permit" law has been passed over and above all our objections.

It happened in the City of Madison. It can happen here.

Once a law is passed, it is there to stay. I've seen it happen before.

Even on bills that are voted on by the people, if a bill does not get enough votes to pass, the politicians keep throwing it back in to be voted on again and again until finally it is okayed.

It is a sort of stubbornness on their part to show that they are going to have their way, one way or another.

It is true that we vote these men in; but why, once they are in power, do they make laws that oppress the poor?

The laws seem to apply to the benefit of the wealthy. The wealthy will not be seriously affected by the $15 inspection fee or $2 permit. To the poor, it will be a hardship.

Even meeting the minimum standards for inspections will mean hardship.

For the poor man today, it is a struggle to put food on the table and to pay taxes, much less having to worry about the roof over your head not meeting regulations.

If we allow our aldermen to do this to us, it will prove the City of Granite City is an oligarchy, ruled by a few in their own interests instead of the general interest—not a democracy which is run directly or indirectly by the people.

Our only recourse is to vote the politician out that goes against the majority of the people.

Real cooperation? How about airport?

To the Editor: Illinois authorities have been chided for seeking an early decision on the Columbia-Waterloo site for St. Louis' new major airport.

A look at the record will show why Illinois officials feel that it is time for the federal government to make a favorable decision.

The need for a new airport for St. Louis has been plainly shown in studies paid for by St. Louis taxpayers.

The Columbia-Waterloo site was selected by a respected St. Louis engineering firm working under contract with the City of St. Louis' airport authority.

It was only after these findings by Missourians that the State of Illinois became involved.

Even then, Illinois made its own studies to double-check the facts and to determine, first, that a new airport was needed and, second, that no site in Missouri was as suitable for the entire metropolitan area as the Columbia-Waterloo site.

It now appears that we must wait another six months for a decision. St. Louis leaders could use their time to great advantage to build an understanding that St. Louis urgently needs a new airport and that Columbia-Waterloo is the place to build it.

This kind of leadership would show the world that St. Louis is ready to fight off its economic decline and to rise above narrow, parochial considerations.

It would show St. Louisans are determined to create new jobs and new opportunities for themselves and their children. As of now, the St. Louis area is lagging behind Kansas City, Dallas-Fort Worth, Houston and many other cities which have solved their airport problems.

There is an important role for Lambert Field in the future—but for the long term. St. Louis needs a new "big league" airport at Columbia-Waterloo.

It is time for decision and not delay. St. Louis leaders should close ranks with supporters of the Columbia-Waterloo site.

This would be an act of statesmanship and the first step toward a future of genuine regional cooperation.

Favors state as drainage sponsor

To the Editor: In view of our experience with the East Side Levee and Sanitary District, I have written Gov. Daniel Walker to ask that the State of Illinois be the local sponsor for the state-federal hillside drainage program.

I and others have tried to help the Levee District, only to keep being hit by a brick wall.

You cannot help something that does not want help except in stormy seasons, when they want us to cry disaster to get funds for the same programs over and over.

Boeing of Trustees is almost totally unresponsive to the needs of the people.

It has failed in its written obligations to Illinois relative to Dobrey Slough and it has failed in its contractual obligations to the United States concerning its pumping stations and maintenance of the integrity of the Mississippi River levee.

The Levee District is not doing its job on flood control and hasn't for many years.

The district could curtail construction in low-lying areas if such construction interferes with drainage control. Any ditch or channel going to a levee district pumping station is under control of the Levee District, but it has never exercised its power.

Sure, they may not have signed some plans here in the Dobrey Slough area, but the construction went on anyway.

Five years later, after many of our homes have been "destroyed" by water, the district talks of filing lawsuits that involve two to three million dollars in building that never was approved by them.

What good is it to lock the barn gates after the horses have fled?

I do not believe we need this agency to tell us how to vote, as is their policy. Most of us will take the drainage programs instead.

We, therefore, ask for the governor's swift action and support in getting hillside drainage off the launching pad this spring—after decades of delay by making a commitment soon that the State of Illinois be our local sponsor.

Town use of shared revenue is regulated

SPRINGFIELD — Townships which have been spending federal revenue sharing funds for public service projects may be in for trouble in justifying their expenditures, under an opinion recently issued by the Illinois attorney general and upheld in a federal court decision.

Atty. Gen. William Scott, on a request by Rep. William D. Walsh, R-LaGrange Park, ruled recently that townships or other local governing body receiving federal revenue sharing money can only expend these on things they are authorized to spend their own funds on. Once it is determined such an expenditure is valid, the local body is then governed, in addition, by a list of priorities in the federal law.

These are listed as being the "ordinary and necessary maintenance and operating expenses for a group of activities including public safety, environmental protection, public transportation, health, recreation, libraries, social services for the poor or aged, and financial administration."

Several subdivisions define these as "public safety." Thus, "public safety" can include law enforcement, fire protection and building code enforcement, while "environmental protection" can include sewage disposal, sanitation and pollution abatement, and "public transportation" includes streets and roads, and transit systems.

However, according to Asst. Atty. Gen. J. Calvin Bostian, the rub lies in the fact that many townships or other local governing bodies were not originally authorized to expend funds for such purposes, and no matter how good the money may be, clearly spelled out powers to spend money and perform services, and legislation would be required in most cases to amend these limitations before a township or other local unit could expend its own funds for some of the services now being sought for revenue sharing money.

Under Illinois law, townships have certain, clearly spelled out powers to spend money and perform services, and legislation would be required in most cases to amend these limitations before a township or other local unit could expend its own funds for some of the services now being sought for revenue sharing money.

An assistant in Scott's office said that programs such as providing reduced bus fares for senior citizens would not be likely to be covered by any aspect of the present statute, but establishment of a venereal disease clinic in a township might be possible under existing health care authorizations. Only the board of attorneys, by checking the statutes, can determine the course an individual governmental unit could follow, he said.

used for the periods which coincide with the fiscal years starting July 1 of '73, '74 and '75, must be used, obligated or appropriated within 24 months of the end of the period for which they are issued. However, Mr. Langon said, local government bodies can ask the secretary of the Treasury for an extension of time, which the secretary may grant, at his discretion.

To supplement his opinion, Atty. Gen. Scott asked, and received, an opinion from William H. Sager, chief counsel for the office of revenue sharing in the U.S. Treasury Department. That opinion held that Scott's position is correct. Bostian said — that priorities or not, a local body cannot spend revenue sharing funds for anything it cannot legally spend its own funds on.

In cases where townships and other groups have erroneously dispersed funds, Bostian said, the local group may be required to return the money. The rules and regulations governing entitlement to payments under the act show that in cases of noncompliance with a unit of local government, the local unit must pay to the secretary of the Treasury an amount equal to 100 per cent of any amount expended in violation, unless the local government repays that amount instead into the local fund holding the payments. In instances where a local unit cannot or does not repay the challenged amount, it will be withheld from future allowances, according to the rules.

Under Illinois law, townships have certain, clearly spelled out powers to spend money and perform services, and legislation would be required in most cases to amend these limitations before a township or other local unit could expend its own funds for some of the services now being sought for revenue sharing money.

An assistant in Scott's office said that programs such as providing reduced bus fares for senior citizens would not be likely to be covered by any aspect of the present statute, but establishment of a venereal disease clinic in a township might be possible under existing health care authorizations. ## Illinois' vagabond poet - rebel with a cause

SPRINGFIELD — What was Vachel Lindsay really like?

There is no ONE answer. Like any bona fide artist, he was an enigma. Also a rebel. But not a rebel without an idealistic cause. And not a rebel without a sense of duty to his fellow beings.

Highly successful as a poet-lecturer, Vachel eventually was even appreciated by his home town, an honor that doesn't automatically befall all talented souls.

Yet torment was Vachel's final companion. His inner struggles, whatever they were, led to his tragic suicide at the age of 52.

Numerous books have been written about Springfield's vagabond poet. Some provide objective insights into a complex legend. Others are either sadly subjective or downright inaccurate. Lindsay scholars are still at work but the "definitive" biography of the poet is still in the future.

Seemingly the most logical person to write a book about the real Lindsay is Elizabeth Graham, who knew the legend himself. It is to Miss Graham, the keeper of the flame, that we turn to learn the truth about the man.

A native of Galena, Miss Graham knew Lindsay in her college days and after she came to Springfield to teach. With pride and devotion Miss Graham helps anyone learn tangible facts about Lindsay.

But innate honesty forbids Vachel's loyal friend from guessing about things that only the poet himself could explain.

"Probing of psychic mysteries ignores the sanctity of privacy," Miss Graham says quietly. But she screams loudly about "Lies! Lies!" which surround the Lindsay legend.

"I should like to be studiously silent about the combination of the causes of Vachel's afflictment. They are too varied, too complex, too personal, too tragic, too sad to haul before those who find and rate high the best of his message."

"I cannot and do not pretend to pinpoint the final twists of the screw that led him to take his life. I distrust magic revelations. I abhor talismans. No one fact is the truth. Answers lie in a quest to fathom the bulk of his visions, dreams and relations with human beings."

It has failed in its written obligations to Illinois relative to

Young drivers skilled—but lack of caution makes them dangerous

Traffic accidents are the scourge of youth, Michael J. Howlett, Illinois secretary of state, said Friday night. Howlett discussed the responsibility of young people in traffic safety at the Illinois Youth Traffic Conference, sponsored by the Governor's Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee.

High school students and driver education instructors attended the conference, held at Decatur.

"Traffic accidents are the leading killer of our young people," Howlett said. "Older folk are more likely to die of heart trouble, cancer or some other disease. But driving and riding with other young drivers are the biggest hazards to survival for young men and women."

"More than a third of all drivers in fatal accidents are under 25 years old. More than 16 per cent are under 20. "The traffic accident death rate for all ages in 1972 was 27.2 per 100,000 population. But for the 15 to 24 age group, the rate was 47.3.

"The reason is not ignorance. The best educated drivers on the road are the younger drivers."

"Our younger drivers grew up during a period in which we have spent millions on driver education. The auto industry has furnished cars for instruction. The teachers are professionally trained."

"We believe in driver education so strongly we license boys and girls to drive in Illinois at 16 if they have successfully gone through the 30 hours of classroom instruction and six hours behind the wheel."

"Other drivers don't obtain a license until they are 18."

"If younger drivers are better educated, why are they not better drivers than the other age groups?"

"Since their accident rate is higher, the insurance industry charges higher auto insurance premium rates to drivers under 25."

"Young people pay attention to their peers. When leaders they respect show interest in traffic safety, others will follow. "By your presence at this conference, you have demonstrated your personal commitment to safe driving. I hope you and I can work together to emphasize social responsibility as the first qualification of an Illinois driver."

"A person could memorize the Rules of the Road, pass a classroom test, pass a road test, obtain a driver's license and still be a dangerous driver if he does not respect the rights of others or the authority of law."

"Safe driving is a matter of life and death."

"More Americans have been killed in traffic accidents than in all our wars since the Revolution."

"Too many of them have been young people cut off in the bloom of life, with their best years still ahead of them."

"Driving skills are important. But it is more important to accept responsibility to the rest of society."

"Respect and responsibility, as standard equipment in every driver, would mean fewer accidents, lower insurance rates and more lives saved."

Kinder heads Kiwanians

Norman Kinder, a local attorney, was elected president of the Breakfast Kiwanis Club at its meeting Thursday morning in Charlie's Restaurant. He will be installed in July.

Other officers elected were Herbert Camren, first vice-president; Jack Mulach, second vice-president; B. J. Davis, secretary; and Jack Darlington, treasurer.

The club approved, on the recommendation of Kiwanian Max Boyd, the purchase of eye glasses for a veteran who has a non-service connected disability and lacked funds to purchase glasses.

The group plans to celebrate its first anniversary with a ladies night at Scott Air Force Base on Thursday, May 9. Plans call for inviting Kiwanians Governor Roy Green, and Louis Enlow and Louis Bullion, both former lieutenant-governors who helped get the Breakfast Club organized.

An invitation also will be given to Granite City Evening Kiwanis club members to attend.

Harold Brown, superintendent of parks and recreation for the Granite City Park District, will be the guest speaker at next Thursday's meeting. Brown had to delay his scheduled talk a week due to a minor illness.

Mrs. Reese named GOP chairwoman

Mrs. Jane Reese, president of the Granite City Republican Women's Club, was appointed district GOP chairwoman during a meeting of the Granite City Republican Central Committee last week.

The appointment was made by Ralph Astorian, chairman of the central committee, who presided during the meeting.

Mrs. Reese also is program chairman for the Madison County Federation of Republican Women and is committeewoman for her husband, Roger Reese, in Granite City Precinct 18.

The committee voted to participate in the Granite City Joyce's annual Homecoming June 13 through 16.

The committee's next meeting will be held May 15.

General Steel's debt is reduced

General Steel Industries, Inc., had net income for the three months ended March 31 of $796,000, or 32 cents per share of common stock, compared with net income of $555,000, or 22 cents per share, in the first quarter of 1973.

It was announced at the annual meeting Thursday by W. Ashley Gray Jr., chairman and chief executive officer, and James A. Van Sant, president and chief operating officer, that sales in the first quarter this year were $12,325,000 compared with $11,583,000 in the same period last year.

The backlog of orders for GSI's five manufacturing divisions stood at $20,323,000 on March 31, compared with $14,202,000 at the end of the first quarter of 1973.

GSI's indebtedness has been reduced to $19,920,000 at present, compared with $31,388,000 a year ago through sale of railroad products, certain plant equipment and the Castings and St. Louis Car Divisions.

Thomas H. O'Leary, executive vice president of Mississippi River Corp., St. Louis, was elected director of GSI, succeeding Edwin B. Meissner Jr.

Other members of the GSI board of directors were elected at the annual meeting, which was held at the corporate headquarters, 8400 Midland Blvd., St. Louis.

GSI's operating units are Ludlow-Saylor Wire Cloth, Flex-O-Lite, Standard Pipeprotection and GSI Engineering, all headquartered in the St. Louis area; National Roll near Pittsburgh, Pa.; and the Simplicity Engineering Co., a subsidiary at Durand, Mich.

Participation jumps in flood insurance program

Mon., Apr. 22, 1974 Page 15

In the last several years. Before individuals in flood prone areas can be insured, local government units must apply for eligibility from the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development and agree to adopt regulations to limit participation in flood plains.

The Governor's Task Force on Flood Control has engaged in a major effort to encourage local governments to take advantage of the program and has provided aid in submitting their applications.

Residents of flood plain areas, in which local government unit has obtained H.U.D. approval, may purchase flood insurance for which the federal government pays about 90 per cent of the cost.

Twenty-four counties and 117 municipalities now are participating, out of a total of 380 local government units which the governor's task force lists as top priorities.

Communities which have recently become eligible for the program are: Albany, Alton, East Alton, Green Oaks, Gulfport, Hartford, Jersey County, Lake wood, Meredosia, Naples, Norridge, Quincy, Randolph County, River Grove, Savanna, Washington Park and Waukegan.

House probably will impeach Nixon, but Senate vote uncertain—Percy

Sen. Charles H. Percy has concluded within the last month that the House probably will impeach President Nixon, but he says no one can predict the Senate's verdict.

"The Illinois Republican believes 'time is running out' for the President and that his 'seeming reluctance' to provide Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and the House Judiciary Committee with requested information may be his undoing."

Percy said as recently as "two, three, four weeks ago" he did not believe the House would vote out a bill of impeachment, but an "erosion of confidence" now indicates that it will.

"But there is no one that can predict what the Senate will do," he added.

He is "doing considerable work" on the procedures for a Senate trial.

"This is not to presume that we're going to have the case, but I think we have to be ready for it in the event that we do have it," he said.

"I have ascertained that we will carry on all of our business on a two-track basis, and have the trial running three or four hours. If we have it in the Senate, per day, so that the work of the Senate can be carried on a separate track."

Percy said one question he is exploring is whether the impeachment trial, if there is to be one, "should be open for public television and for telecasting."

He estimates a trial "would take several months," the duration would depend on the House's preparation of its case and the time required for the defense.

"It depends on whether the President appears personally and actually sits in the well of the Senate and is there and takes an active role, or whether he is represented only by his attorneys," Percy said.

In answer to a question on whether the President is reversing himself on certain issues to assure "34 friendly votes in the Senate," Percy said he has "no first-hand evidence" of such a strategy.

"But I've been very disturbed about indications I have that already a certain degree of activity is under way to try to insure 34 votes," he said.

ENJOY THE MOST MODERN OF ALL HEATING SYSTEMS!

WILLIAMSON ELECTRIC HEATING

Electric heating is considered to be the fastest growing type of residential heating today. Where attractive electric rates exist and the home is properly wired and insulated, electric becomes the first choice of heating fuels because of its many advantages. With electric heat there are no odors, fumes, smoke or wasted heat. It's ready for operation with little or no attention. No chimney or flue is needed. No fuel storage area is needed. There's no overheating, no dirt to impair operation. While other fuels have increased in price over the years, the cost of electricity has remained stable. Keep in mind that electric central air conditioning, as shown, can be easily added. Write or phone for a cost estimate today.
